Chapter 1: Jacob

Have you ever been told by your parents to stop playing computer games?

If you have , this is why...

Meet Jacob, a 13 year old boy. Every day, he comes back after school and plays computer games, but on this particular day, something bizarre happened to him.

After coming home from school, Jacob went about his normal routine. He inserted the game "Super Animal Blaster" into his Playstation and started playing. As the loading screen popped up, he discovered a new mode. It read "1st person"; he selected the option and from there his body started to pixelate!

Suddenly, he was sucked into the game!

As Jacob looked around, he noticed that the city was filled with animals. He saw a billboard that read: "Welcome to Anima City."

Unbelievably, a group of turkeys marched down the road, forcing Jacob to hide.

After they had gone past, Jacob noticed a mysterious Alpaca, walking like a human, creeping into an alleyway. Without a thought for his own safety, Jacob followed it into the alleyway, but it had disappeared!

Jacob decided to relax by a waste skip. He realised he was trapped in a computer game – it was a lot to take in. He climbed up onto the waste skip and suddenly fell into it!

Sliding down a hidden slide, Jacob saw more animals – with stun guns!

Chapter 2 : The Animal Army

Surrounding Jacob, the stun gun armed animals stood still until a monkey in a mech appeared.

The monkey started asking Jacob questions like 'Who are you!? Why are you here!?''

Jacob explained that he had been transported here and that he would do anything to get back home. The monkey replied, "If you help us, we will try to help you get home."

Jacob agreed to the deal and the monkey explained that for decades the mean Kanye-Roast had ruled and brought the city into misery and chaos. After that, the animals introduced themselves:

There was Kattie Cat, Ranjit Racoon, Kevin Koala, Sangtar Snake, Alfred Alpaca, Bongo Bird, Pedro Penguin, Pablo Pig and Magnus Mecha Monkey.

They decided, then and there that they would take down the evil Emperor Kanye-Roast.

Chapter 3 : The Rebellion

The team of rebels travelled to Emperor Kanye-Roast's castle; Jacob was wearing his awesome looking suit that he had received from Magnus – he looked like Iron man.

After about 15 minutes of walking, they finally arrived. Now, all that was left to do was fight!

When Magnus Mecha Monkey shouted, "Attack!" they charged. The General and the Emperor's Army ran towards the rebels and the battle commenced.

Jacob and Magnus looked for Emperor Kanye-Roast.

As they entered the throne room, they encountered the Emperor.

He was a small chicken wearing a large, red cloak, blue jacket embroidered with eggshells and white silk pants which were dotted like a leopard.

As soon as he spotted the intruders, he pushed a big, red button on his throne and both Jacob and Magnus were immediately trapped in a gigantic block that rose from the ground and engulfed them.

Inside the block, appeared to be a platforming game, like Super Mario. Jacob soon realised that he had to beat this obstacle to make any progress!

Jacob and Magnus leaped onto the first platform, then to the next, then the next and after a couple of minutes, they had completed that part of the gigantic block.

The pair entered the next room and a voice yelled, "To pass, you must make a statue of me, Emperor Kanye-Roast!"

The voice disappeared and a plethora of materials appeared out of a hole. The duo both worked hard to build the Emperor's statue and, despite hating him, it was actually a very good likeness. It was then judged by a drone that worked for the Emperor, and it was so life-like the drone actually malfunctioned!

Luckily, the intrepid explorers were allowed to continue. For the third obstacle, the dynamic duo would have to win a car race against two turkeys.

While they clambered into the car, the two turkeys got a head start, leaving Jacob and Magnus at a disadvantage. The boys stepped on the gas and chased after the troublesome turkeys; the race was so intense you would've been on the edge of your seat!

One second the turkeys were in the lead, and in the next, Jacob and Magnus zipped ahead, but just when they thought all hope was lost, Jacob zoomed past the two turkeys and won!

Unfortunately for the turkeys, they were blown up with their car.

Chapter 4: Big Big Battle Introductions

However, there was still one last obstacle. Whatever was it? As Jacob and Magnus entered what they thought to be the final room, the floor unexpectedly caved in and the two fell into an arena. A huge silence filled the space.

Out of nowhere, a voice boomed, "Turkeys, are you ready to see the greatest battle ever?"

The audience roared, "Yes!"

"On the left we have Jacob and Magnus Mecha Monkey," the introducer yelled.

“And on the right we have the glorious Emperor Kanye-Roast!” and out of the shadows, to clapping and roaring, a humongous mech appeared. It was the Emperor himself.

The two heroes surely couldn’t beat him now.

Chapter 5: The Big Battle Begins

With great might, Kanye-Roast swung his left arm and tried to hit the pair of heroes, but missed his shot. Jacob and Magnus took the opportunity to start shooting at the gigantic orange mech with their blasters, but this made Kanye-Roast angry, so he tried stepping on Jacob. Luckily, Magnus rushed over to save him.

Using all his strength, he flipped the Emperor on his back.

As the mech covered Emperor was on the ground, the two leapt onto him and started shooting at the chest of the metallic beast. Slowly but surely, the colossal sized mech started to sizzle and then caught fire and exploded into a cloud of dust, launching the two heroes up in the air.

Thanks to Magnus' mech, they could float safely back to the ground, whilst Kanye-Roast was covered in debris, which made him look like a crow.

Without warning, Alfred Alpaca came flying out of the window and so did the rest of the rebels.

It was the General, he had thrown Alfred Alpaca and the team into the arena.

Chapter 6: The Unexpected Battle

The team started explaining that the General had drunk a potion to make him super strong. Magnus then told them that they would have to work together if they wanted to defeat the General.

They quickly planned an attack.

The team of rebels would try to hold him down and Magnus would make the final blow.

The rebels tried to execute their plan, but the General was too strong and knocked each of them away. The rebels were so tired and beaten after the battles they had already faced, that they were running low on energy and ideas.

Jacob decided to try something different; he set his blaster to stun mode and shot it towards the General's face. The burst of light blinded the General, making him dizzy.

Then for the moment of truth: Magnus came in and punched the General so hard, he was sent soaring into the sky.

Everything was over, Kanye-Roast and his army were defeated.

Jacob was ready to return home.

Chapter 7: Going Home

Finally, the mission was complete: Jacob had defeated the boss. Everybody was cheering for the tremendous team who had done it. Now, all that was left was for Jacob to go home, which made him a little sad as he really enjoyed it here and had made lots of friends.

His body started to pixelate again and he seemed to be fading away. As quickly as he could, he shouted "Bye!" and then he simply disappeared.

Meanwhile in Jacob's room, white particles started to form and Jacob popped out of thin air.

Although he had one of the greatest adventures of his life, he was relieved to be home and now it was all over.

Chapter 8: Epilogue

Walking to school with his friends, Jacob noticed strange particles filling the sky; they looked like the ones that had been used to transport him back.

Suddenly, an enormous, orange mech and an army of turkeys came falling out of the sky .

Could it be the animals coming back to ask him to fight for them again in Anima City?
